By Jack Cuddy

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(BUP)—Look out below. We're climbing right on top of that shaky limb and picking the Cardinals to beat the Yankees in the world series.

We're selecting the St. Louis swiftness to take the series four games to three in five games. We like the Red Birds because of their winning momentum, their fighting edge, and their youthful speed and their luck, among other things.

Lady Luck quite likely will prove an all-important factor in the particular series, which promises top-flight pitching and lightning infield play for both outfits. Although both clubs pack dangerous hitting punch, we don't expect long-driving to turn the tide.

1. Both teams have excellent outfielders.
2. The pitchers seem capable of pitching distance and hitting the ball.
Therefore, we say: Watch for the infield breaks and watch the Cardinals take advantage of those breaks.
We'll be looking at the clubs like from a cock-eyed angle to see if we prefer the Cardinals' pitching staff because it appears to be better balanced. Billy Southworth has two ace right-handers, Cooper and Lanner, and two good left-handers, Lanner and White. The Cardinals use as starters. And for relief he has Southworth, Phil Minton, right-handers Kist, Gumbert and Dick-

FIVE RIGHT-HANDERS
Joe McCarthy can send the Yankee mound as starters five right-handers: Busham, Ruffing, Chandler, Donald and Buehler. He has four other right-handers: Phil Minton, Murphy, Lindell and Turner. But Minton has only two southpaws for starting or relief. Facing Lefty Grove and an uncertain Russian Russo, we don't expect that the Yankees would start five right-handers to start.

Without being the public for too much to start with, let us at this point ask the readers who do not agree with us to please refrain from writing us up or getting into a firing line, but behind a typewriter, only after the series is over. If the

Notre Dame Held to Tie

Navy Pre-Flight Gridmen Make Impressive Showings

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—(AP)—The Navy's pre-flight gridiron representatives uncovered surprising power and smoothness Saturday as the United States' first wartime football season in 25 years got under way.

At Evanston, the Iowa Sea-Hawks, coached by Lt. Col. Bernie Bierman, rolled past Northwestern of the Big Ten, 20-12.

Penn. highly touted favorite to regain its Ivy League championship, fell before the Georgia pre-flight, 14-6, finding, such former pro and college stars as Frank Filchuck, Charles Timmins, Billy Patterson, Bob Foss and Jim Poole too much to handle.

Harvard got an expected beating at Cambridge from the North Carolina pre-flight school, 12-6, bowing finally to a fourth-quarter surge led by Len Elshorn, which yielded both touchdowns. A last-minute field goal gave St. Mary's pre-flight a 10-0 triumph over Oregon.

Bolling right along with the naval ends which such collegiate standbys as Minnesota, Texas and Duke but Notre Dame and Tennessee each had to swallow a bitter pill in the shape of the scores. Notre Dame found Wisconsin, big ten dark horse, tough and had to be content with a 7-7 draw. Tennessee, figured as a Southeastern contender, was held to a scoreless stalemate by South Carolina.

Billy Daley scored four touchdowns as Minnesota scored its 18th successive victory, a 56-7 rout of the once powerful Pittsburg Panthers following on its 40-0 rout of Corpus Christi, early national contender. At Springfield, handed Kansas State a 6-0 drubbing, Duke won Handley from Davidson 14-0.

The far western program was marked by one major surprise when Tulare invaded Los Angeles and smashed Southern California 27-12. California, picked by some experts to take the coast conference crown, shed out a 6-0 tie.

EIGHTH STRAIGHT NO HELP TO DODGERS

St. Louis Cardinals National League Pennant

Cards Record

42 Victories

In 51 Games

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 28.—(AP)—St. Louis Cardinals Sunday became champions of the National League for the sixth time since 1926 by clinching one of the stirring drives in baseball history with a 9-2 victory over Chicago Cubs in the first game of a doubleheader. They went on to win the second game 4-1.

Cheered on by a crowd of 31,067 at packed Sportsman's Park to see the windup of a thrilling race that had carried down to the last day of the season, the Cards drove home the clincher with the 42nd victory in their 51 games.

It was all done before Brooklyn Dodgers' final first victory over the Phils at Philadelphia was posted on the scoreboard.

Brian White pitched a five-hitter and his teammates locked out the result with four-run outburst in the fifth inning. Then it was just a matter of course that the Cards captured their fifth straight and fourth victory of the year against 48 defeats.

When Clyde McCullough, the top catcher, lifted high to St. Paul in the field in the ninth inning and the game ended, the Cards were 42-9.

The victorious Cardinals rushed into the dugout, surrounded the triumphant pitcher, left Lefty White, and the Cards' 42-9 record, which they took to St. Louis with the win.

Hence, our request: Please do not write until after the series. Give us a report in which to recover at the end of the season called Goulet-Hurlon.

At the time we didn't know there were so many fans around the country who were waiting for the Dodgers. Well, sir, those pro-Flabbers "miserable" us by mail. Most of the letters were not they could have been sent to the Cardinals.

They are not only questioned our mentality but promised "the Cardinals" the Cardinals. It is indeed a pleasure for us that St. Louis won the flag.

Russians Adhering to Initial Strategy

The Russians are proving the wisdom of developing a good plan and sticking to it. This mode of operation is risky unless the initial plan is well conceived, with all the factors rightly judged. The Russians have little alternative but to make up their minds what they are going to do and go on doing it, regardless of initial results. They are neither as fluid nor as mobile as the Germans, which is due partly to the general character of their country, but chiefly to the fact that the territory best served by roads and railways is in German hands.

But as the German offensive against the Caucasus and the Volga front developed the Russians began disposing their massive forces as they thought best for the future. They did not deem it wise to concentrate their strength within the bend of the Don River and hold great reserves in waiting behind the Volga or in the north Caucasus, and they were unable to hold mobile striking forces in different sectors to be rushed to threatened points because of inadequate rail and road facilities.

In consequence, they judged the strength of the forces deployed will be required to hold the Germans in check along a slowly retiring front and absorb the shock of the assault. Then they deliberately moved the great bulk of their striking power into strategically important sectors of the central and north central front.

RUSSIAN PLAN JUSTIFIED

For some weeks now they have been laboriously reducing or eliminating the bastions of German defense and the springboards from which new German offensives might be mounted and launched.

The grand strategy of the Soviet High Command is beginning to justify itself. The German assault on Stalingrad can hardly increase in ferocity, and the enemy can ill afford to sustain losses along the banks of the Volga at the present rate while Russian forces continue to improve their positions from Voronezh to Volga River. The Germans shift their weight westward, they will find their flank weakened.

Of particular interest is the revelation in recent days that the Volga River gunboats are pumping shells into German rear areas on the eastern bank. This would seem to indicate that the German army cannot close that shells from gunboats can be of important targets.

The capture of Stalingrad has become a military necessity to Germany, not because of any benefit to the possession of the city would confer on the Germans which can be obtained along the way, but because the Volga would not give them in any event, but because there is in Stalingrad a strong force of seven lines of communication across the river and an effective point of its own.

ONE HAND IN VISE

German positions cannot be seen to hold long the Volga banks north or south of the city until the city is destroyed. When Dr. Goebbels tells the German people that the strategic aims of the German offensive have already been reached, and that the aims were to cut the Moscow-Stalingrad railway and the highway from Stalingrad to Saratov, he is perfectly correct. What he neglected to tell them is that it is quite useless to stop your enemy's wire if he grabs onto it and will not let go. You have to get your fist out again, or yourself in after it. That is why the Germans must now take Stalingrad, or resign themselves to being kicked from shoulder to ankle, with one hand firmly in a vise.

It is interesting to note that the enemy has already tried to redeem his position on the central front on the upper Don at Voronezh. Heavy and repeated counter-attacks launched by the Germans in this sector have resulted in great loss to the enemy, who has now clearly over-extended himself and needs time to re-organize his forces as well as to repair and replace equipment. He is not succeeding anywhere. Without much pressure, he has been in forced to retreat to positions on the slopes of the central Caucasus in the Moudok region.

Small units from the Red Marines have been able to replace his position along the Black Sea coast, and Rubev, the main bastion which protects the apex of the Smolensk salient, has now been enveloped with the tide of battle moving westward.

ANOTHER CONVOY BATTLE

The arrival of a large Allied convoy at a Russian port bearing additional equipment will not make it any easier for the Germans, who are now frantically about another great Arctic battle, which suggests that still another convoy is approaching.

Mr. Wendell Willkie is apparently being made to feel that the Russians are disappointed and dissatisfied over the failure of the Anglo-American nation to produce a second front as yet. This is a natural. The British man in the street felt that the Allies had failed during the first nine months of 1941 over the failure of the United States to produce more tangible aid than the comparatively small amount of lend-lease material which was reaching Britain at that period. The British felt that they were being let down by the United States.

Now the industrial weight of the United States is beginning to be felt in the East, where it is also in the Middle East, but another enemy has been added to the Axis side who has turned out to be a great deal more formidable than that most powerful expectation.

Although the British and American general staffs have an eye on eastern Europe and are preparing to assault it with all speed, they are not overlooking the other eye cocked toward the Middle East, where important economic as well as military issues are at stake which might be lost almost overnight. Thousands of aircraft and millions of tons of shipping which might otherwise be available for use in the West or support a European front are being applied to the Middle East.

Not only do British and American defenses stand in need of reinforcement and supplies and repair, but the support of the United States and the Chinese and the Russians themselves must be supplied with equipment. Means and increase the scale and intensity of their air effort over Germany. R.A.F. and American air action has been very formidable, make no doubt of that, but it has not increased to the devastating proportions that were indicated earlier in the summer.

HOLDS HAND AGAINST JAPAN

As air losses have at no time approached the rate of new aircraft production, and airbases are continually being built, we can only assume that there have been large transfers of aircraft and personnel to other theatres of war. When the best available military judgment considers that the defenses of India are sufficiently strong, and the British Army of the Nile has been given enough power to ensure the safety of Alexandria, then the stream of production will be diverted into accumulated strength for operations in West Africa and the continent of Europe.

Russia herself, probably with the full approval of Washington and London, has taken no aggressive action against her traditional enemy, Japan. There is no doubt that the use of Russian bases and the assistance of Russian warships and aircraft might have saved the resources of the East Indies from falling into Japanese hands and removed the threat to Australia. A common strategy of pooled resources would have been reached after full consideration of all these things, and no one demanded that Russia open a second front against Japan. Rightly or wrongly, for better or for worse, the Allied strategy at present appears to be one of bottling up the Japanese first, removing Axis forces from North Africa by one means or another, second, and then assaulting Germany through France. As to the timing, no man can say. The defenses of the Middle East may already be nearing completion.

The fortification of India's eastern approaches has been going on for five months, and there are signs that the Anglo-American offensive in Africa is about to be opened.

Colorful Ceremony Marks Visit to City

Supreme Head Ukrainian Greek Church

Artistic talents so deeply cherished by Edmontontonians of Ukrainian origin were brought out in fullest splendor and in varied assortment at the Ukrainian Greek Orthodox Church, 95 street and 106 avenue, during the visit, Sunday, of Most Rev. Archbishop John Theodorovich, Philadelphia, Pa., supreme head of the Ukrainian Greek Orthodox church for United States and Canada.

This was the 37th visit to the Edmontonton parish of the supreme head since his elevation to that position in 1924. He was chief participant in the morning service and delivered the sermon during the service proper.

Assisting him were Rev. S. Symchuk, Willington, Alta., and Rev. Peter Melnychuk, priest of the local parish.

FEAST IS HELD

Following the service a congregation of 300 participated in a feast arranged by the Ukrainian Ladies Aid, in honor of the distinguished visitor.

A memorial service in memory of Sgt. Oba Walter Bill Wyszynski, Edmontonton and Thurhill, and Sgt. Ed. Eugene Kurik, Inowave, who were killed recently in R.C.A.F. activities over enemy territory, was held at 4:30 p.m.

Picturesquely garbed in robes of scarlet, mauve and gold, the Archbishop and his two assistants were the centres of interest in a five-hour program of services.

Choral singing of church songs composed by world famous artists emanated from the confines of an elevated choir booth situated at the rear of the church proper above the heads of the congregation.

P. J. Lazarowich, well-known churchman, a choir leader and Stephen Zdril is one of the leading chorists.

LARGE CONGREGATION

As the overflow congregation joined the church in some of the traditional Orthodox customs, candles and incense were used with strains of music rendered in the Ukrainian tongue.

Leading to the altar were rows of chandeliers holding hundreds of flaming candles, and a brilliant array of electric lighting jutting out of the roof and suspended from the ceiling.

Seen through the doorway of the main entrance to the altar stood a miniature replica of a typical Orthodox church, and a crowd could be seen many more golden chandeliers, each topped with the crucifix.

biblical characters, including the 12 apostles.

Each painting was donated to the church by individual members of the congregation.

The outstanding among numerous examples of central European handicraft was the work on two banners that adorned the passage way to the altar.

In the midst of this array of Ukrainian art, handicraft and song, stood Archbishop Theodorovich, dressed in his annual message to the congregation made up of Edmontontonians and others from many parts of Northern Alberta.

The supreme head used as his theme for the sermon the dire need of love, devotion and sacrifice, in greater proportions than ever before, as the only solution for the solution of the present world conflict.

The day itself is the anniversary of the "elevation of the Cross of Christ" by one who showed love, charity and sacrifice in the time of world strife, and at no time more the contrasts have been more needed for an expression of that love and sacrifice than at present, he stated.

OLD TRADITION

One of the oldest and most commonly prevalent traditions of the peoples of Slavonic origin, was executed at the church entrance when the Archbishop and his two assistants were greeted by the church brethren and priests, with bread and salt. This gesture is understood by all peoples as an indication of the most wholehearted welcome.

A pleasant and palatable combination of "traditional" and Canadian dishes greeted the congregations at the parish hall following the main service.

Since the day is earmarked on the Orthodox calendar as a Lenten day, the meal consisted of meat and meat products. Substituting the meat dishes were fried fish, rice and cabbage rolls (holubtsi), corned meat (kashanka), stewed baked beans (fasolee) and beet soup (borshch).

The potes were prepared by the Ukrainian Ladies Aid under the guidance of Mrs. F. Gouda, president of the Aid.

V. H. Hryniuk, chairman of the diocese board acted as chairman of the post-dinner meeting. Archbishop Theodorovich spoke briefly at this time.

N. Spachuk is treasurer of the board and W. Hryniuk is secretary. P. J. Lazarowich, P. Pash and Tymoshuk are church trustees.

In his brief post-dinner message the Archbishop spoke of the progress of the Ukrainian Orthodox Church from its beginning in a Warsaw Ukraine after the last war, to

Thirteen Workers Are Injured When Concrete Collapses

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—(AP)—At least 13 men were injured, two seriously, Saturday, when a large area of wet concrete collapsed on a water department construction project.

The men were buried under—or pitched into—the cement when the form into which it was being poured was supported from below by wood and steel supports.

Rescuers quickly pulled most of them out from the top while others were removed through a narrow tunnel.

More serious earthquakes occur in Japan than in any other country.

Youth Poses as Woman to Obtain Teaching Post

SHELBYVILLE, Ont., Sept. 28.—(CP)—L. V. Mezzio, Fergus school inspector, said Saturday a young man who had impersonated a woman in order to obtain a post as school teacher in Monck, West Litchfield township, had been discharged.

School officials said the man, who gave a woman's name and a North Bay, Ont. address, was engaged during the summer for this term.

The youth taught school for 10 days until a shaving brush found in his room caused Mrs. James Rhyt, with whom he boarded, to become suspicious. Later Mrs. Rhyt discovered the teacher without his wig and notified police.

EQUAL TO TWELVE MILLS ON TAX RATE

Utilities Return $681,100

Increase of $3,428.77 Submits Report

Over Last Year's Total Is Reported to Council

The equivalent of 12 mills on the current tax rate has been paid by the city-owned utilities in surplus and taxes during the first eight months of this year, it was disclosed in a report submitted to the city council by City Comptroller A. A. Campbell.

I Saw Today

Total of surplus and taxes paid by city utilities during the eight month period was $681,100, compared with $677,671.27 last year, an increase of $3,428.77. The amount of the net surplus of the utilities was $265,458.49, and the tax payments $415,641.51. Last year, the surplus was $272,771.11, and the tax payments $298,877.34.

Gross revenue for the eight months of 1942 was $3,648,345.53, compared with $3,511,735.46 last year, while gross expenditures in the 1942 period were $2,967,245.67, compared with $2,868,313.58 last year.

The deficit on the street railway operations for the eight month period 1942 was $26,493.31, compared with $45,074.72 for the same period last year.

The net surplus achieved by the other departments were: electric light, $79,620.47, compared with $80,642.19 last year; Edmonton telephone department, $81,481.08 compared with $131,003.37; compared with $131,003.37, and the waterworks department, $104,044, and the waterworks department, $104,044, and the waterworks department, $104,044.

The decrease in the net surplus of each department is accounted for by the fact that large appropriations for renewal and service account and replacements are made in each of the utilities with the exception of the electric light department.

The following table shows the reserves set aside during the 1942 eight month period with the corresponding figures for last year: Edmonton light, $46,600, $46,600; power plant, $119,000, $119,000; street railway, $116,000, $77,672; waterworks, $104,044, $104,044.

The increase of approximately $10,000 in the waterworks department is accounted for by the fact that the waterworks department, $104,044, and the waterworks department, $104,044.

Compared with last year.

THE QUESTION

Last month's inquiry is becoming a serious problem in Edmonton and all over Canada and the United States. Do you think the recommendation of the street railway superintendent.

The recommendation to prohibit smoking is made following receipt of complaints regarding the smoking in other parts of the street cars than those designated by the law. Overcrowding on the street cars is also a reason for the prohibition.

CONSIDER FAIR

Whether a summer fair, midway and horse races will be held here next summer is likely also to be discussed at the meeting on Monday evening. Several organizations have been asked to consider the holding of the summer fair next year.

Protesting organizations are the Civic Progressive Association, Women's Missionary Society, the Lullian Smith Auxiliary, and the Edmonton Denary, Anglican Church.

The Commissioners have tabled an interim report on the operation of the Edmonton Exhibition Association during the year, but report that a full report on these operations will not be available until November.

The selection of three names to be submitted to the Navy Board, one of which will be the R.C.N. vessel about to be commissioned, will be made by council.

Council will consider also the recommendation of the finance committee that the regulation regarding the hiring of members of a family be varied to permit of the hiring of relatives, provided that they are in and maintaining different households, and that the hiring be in different departments.

Alaska has a population of only 60,000—half white and half native.

Crash Landing After

Sharing Dieppe Raid

By HOPE MORRITT

Limping precariously across war-torn European skies, in a desperate effort to reach the shores of England formed the basis of an unforgettable experience of Sgt. G. F. (Jerry) Miller, R.C.A.F., of Edmonton, air gunner on board a Blenheim bomber which made a crash landing in Britain after having been damaged by enemy action in the recent raid on Dieppe.

Sgt. Miller, son of Mrs. S. Miller, 10221 117 street, arrived from Britain last week, to spend a leave with his mother.

The Dieppe raid was a "grim business, hair-raising but nevertheless thrilling," he explained in an interview. He told how his plane left an English air base in the grey-dawns of early morning and flew across enemy territory for 15 hours. The bomber was badly riddled with bullets, and the hydraulic system, governing the wheels, was shattered. At one time a stream of bullets passed through the cockpit for about a minute and the observer moved his legs a hair's breadth, he would have been another in the great total of casualties from the operation.

A German fighter was not on the trail for a while, but Sgt. Miller smiled as he told how a German came within a few feet of his plane and "parted his hair." It took a crash landing at the same time, he said, that the bomber was shot down. The observer moved his legs a hair's breadth, he would have been another in the great total of casualties from the operation.

The British plane dropped three persons were injured in the crash and 14 traffic casualties occurred on city streets at the weekend.

Most seriously injured was Eugene Derkosh, 1118 71st street, who suffered bruises to his back and head and a possible concussion when he was struck by a car driven by Ben Steller, Rabbit Hills, at 97 street and 102A avenue at 5 p.m. Saturday.

PLAYING TAG

Four witnesses reported to police that the boy was playing tag with his older brother when the bomber crashed. At a moment's hesitation both dived in front of the Steller car. The older boy cleared the front of the car, but Eugene was struck and thrown to the pavement.

The boy was taken to the Royal Alexandra hospital in Steller's car, where he was treated by Dr. Steller. He is now recovering.

Zainzari and two other eleven-year-olds also stated that Eugene was struck by the bomber. They could not avoid striking the boy.

According to hospital reports the patient is being treated for possible concussion.

William C. Bradburn, 12312 104th street, and Frank Jones, 11312 104th street, suffered cuts when Bradburn's car was struck by the bomber while Jenne sat in his parked car awaiting the return of a passenger.

He is now recovering.

HITS REAR CORNER

Bradburn turned onto 104 avenue at 101 street and struck the rear corner of Jenne's car. The force of the impact threw Jenne's car into the air, smashing the windshields and badly damaging the rear of the auto.

Jenne was struck by the wreckage with a cut lip and Bradburn's car was struck by the wreckage. The right front corner of Bradburn's car was badly damaged also. The accident occurred at 8:33 p.m. Saturday.

Considerable damage was done to both cars that crashed head-on at the intersection of 97 street and 104th avenue at 6:30 p.m. Sunday.

HEARD ON CRASH

Fred Rasmussen, 1606 162nd street, heard back onto 97 street after making an apparent attempt to turn off the street onto 104th avenue and crashed head-on into a car and scalp lacerations and shock.

The fronts of both cars were badly damaged and none of the occupants suffered injuries. Eleven other accidents resulted in minor damage to the vehicles involved and no injury to the occupants.

Executive Leaves

To Attend Parley

Reg. T. Ross, executive secretary in minor damage to the vehicles involved and no injury to the occupants.

Three other accredited delegates from the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce are already in the East to attend the annual convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce at Montebello, P.Q.

MacDonald, president of the Chamber, F. G. Winnipeg and A. L. Burrows, secretary, will be co-chairmen of one of the half-day sessions.

He reported that a dozen gold and a pair of silk stockings were among several articles he reported stolen.

Pigs for Market

In Exciting Ride

Six pigs riding to market in a trailer were sprawling on a city street Saturday when the trailer upset when the car driver attempted to avoid hitting a cyclist.

Jerry Powell, Stony Plain, was riding a bicycle in the same direction as the trailer when it overturned. The cyclist was not hurt.

Powell then swung sharply to the right to avoid hitting both the cyclist and the pig, and the trailer upset.

The porkers were sprawling but none was injured and all six were soon mounted on their hind legs and taken to the market.

Hearing of an appeal taken by Ted Lents, Spruce Grove, against conviction and the one-month sentence imposed on him by Magistrate A. L. Miller, R.C., on a charge of making statements likely to prejudice recruiting, opened in district court Monday before His Honor Judge J. L. Crawford. The hearing is still proceeding.

Parents Should Mark Golden Rule in Home

Many Are So Calloused That They Ridicule Their Children in Public; Youngsters Hurt

Torture When Feelings Hurt

It would be a wholesome spirit at heart and father would no more give exercise for parents now and then, to put themselves in their children's places and see how they would like to be treated by some domestic overlord the way they treat their youngsters. Very few mothers and fathers are intentionally unkind to their children, but many are brutal to them through their stupidity and thoughtlessness.

They have the idea that children are some sort of unclassified fauna with hides like a rhinoceros, so thick that no barb can pierce them, and they have strange habits and tastes that make them enjoy being exhibited in public and having their peculiarities discussed in their presence, and that they don't mind being baited and teased and annoyed and disappointed.

They know perfectly well that they would commit murder upon the person of anyone who would point out their peculiarities to the gaudy crowd, and would never forgive anyone who made promises they did not even intend to keep, but they expect children to take it and like it, yet a child is the most sensitive creature on earth and the most hurt and least capable of defending itself.

Why so many other intelligent people, into whose hands God has mistakenly intrusted children, ignore this palpable fact is one known. Yet they do it is the common custom, for instance, for grown-ups to discuss a child in his presence as freely as they discuss a horse or a dog, apparently under the impression that little Johnny is a dead idiot who doesn't understand what it is all about. But he does and it crucifies him when Aunt Sally comments that he looks small for his age and takes after his mother's family who were all runty, or when Uncle John remarks that he must be backward in his studies if he is only in the third grade.

PARENTS PERMIT TORTURE

Father and Mother stand complacently by while this torture is going on and make no effort to stop it, yet imagine what Father would do if anybody told him to his face that he was a looking little half-pint-size minkskin. And what Mother would tell anyone who dared to suggest that the looked like homely old Miss Ella would be aptly.

There are even parents so calloused that they hold their children up as laughing stocks for the amusement of their guests. All of us have seen children wailing in agony while Father set the dinner-table in a roar by relating some blunder that Tommy had made or repeating some articles question that Dicky had asked. Worse still, we have known a Mother to make a funny story about Mame's confidence to her about the boy whose desk was next to hers at school. Once I even heard a Mother read aloud her little girl's first love letter to a gawking crowd of grown-ups.

Now perhaps there are people with such an overgrown sense of humor that they enjoy a joke on themselves and are willing to be made to look ridiculous for the entertainment of their fellow creatures, but if there is I have never met them. We like people to laugh with us, but not at us.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
American Card Authority

During the week of the national tournament there are sessions every afternoon and evening called open games. They are one-session events and the League awards Master Points and a trophy to the player having the live best score with five different partners. The event was formerly known as the Monmouth County Championship.

The winner this year was I. K. Woolfe, who won the event also in 1935, and we were all glad to see the "Captain" repeat this year. He takes his bridge very seriously and will pull off a good psychic but occasionally.

Here is a hand on which Woolfe got a flock of match points in one of the open games. His club bid was not made solely to stop a club bid, although it had that effect.

Doughnuts draw three cheers from almost all Americans. They are a national habit. So add them to the menu and to lunch boxes occasionally.

Either make them or buy them, but be sure they are fresh, free from greasiness and delicately flavored.

HOMEMADE DOUGHNUTS

(Makes 4 dozen small doughnuts)

Four cups sifted flour, 4 teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoon sugar, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, well beaten, ¼ teaspoon lemon extract, 2 tablespoons melted butter or other shortening, 1 cup milk.

Sift flour, salt and nutmeg, and mix together three times. Add sugar to eggs, beating thoroughly; then add extract and shortening. Knead lightly on lightly floured board.

Roll 1½ inch ball with floured 1½-inch doughnut cutter. Fry in deep fat 135 deg. F. until golden brown, turning frequently. Drain on unglazed paper. Sugar if desired.

COCONUT FROSTED DOUGHNUTS

Two tablespoons heavy cream, 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 6 medium doughnuts, ¼ cup shredded coconut, lightly toasted. Add cream gradually to sugar until of right consistency to spread evenly. Drain after each addition. Add vanilla. Spread on top of doughnuts and dip in coconut.

Tomorrow's Menu

Breakfast: Sliced prunes, oatmeal doughnuts, coffee, milk. Luncheon: Tomato juice, creamed leftover vegetables on toast, coconut frosted doughnuts, cherries, milk.

Dinner: Corned beef hash, cut-up, fried potatoes, buttered bread.

McKenney On Bridge

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
American Card Authority

During the week of the national tournament there are sessions every afternoon and evening called open games. They are one-session events and the League awards Master Points and a trophy to the player having the live best score with five different partners. The event was formerly known as the Monmouth County Championship.

The winner this year was I. K. Woolfe, who won the event also in 1935, and we were all glad to see the "Captain" repeat this year. He takes his bridge very seriously and will pull off a good psychic but occasionally.

Here is a hand on which Woolfe got a flock of match points in one of the open games. His club bid was not made solely to stop a club bid, although it had that effect.

Writing Letters Can Be Made Easy

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Doughnuts draw three cheers from almost all Americans. They are a national habit. So add them to the menu and to lunch boxes occasionally.

Either make them or buy them, but be sure they are fresh, free from greasiness and delicately flavored.

HOMEMADE DOUGHNUTS

(Makes 4 dozen small doughnuts)

Four cups sifted flour, 4 teaspoon salt, 1½ teaspoon sugar, 1 cup sugar, 2 eggs, well beaten, ¼ teaspoon lemon extract, 2 tablespoons melted butter or other shortening, 1 cup milk.

Sift flour, salt and nutmeg, and mix together three times. Add sugar to eggs, beating thoroughly; then add extract and shortening. Knead lightly on lightly floured board.

Roll 1½ inch ball with floured 1½-inch doughnut cutter. Fry in deep fat 135 deg. F. until golden brown, turning frequently. Drain on unglazed paper. Sugar if desired.

COCONUT FROSTED DOUGHNUTS

Two tablespoons heavy cream, 1 cup sifted confectioners' sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 6 medium doughnuts, ¼ cup shredded coconut, lightly toasted. Add cream gradually to sugar until of right consistency to spread evenly. Drain after each addition. Add vanilla. Spread on top of doughnuts and dip in coconut.

Tomorrow's Menu

Breakfast: Sliced prunes, oatmeal doughnuts, coffee, milk. Luncheon: Tomato juice, creamed leftover vegetables on toast, coconut frosted doughnuts, cherries, milk.

Dinner: Corned beef hash, cut-up, fried potatoes, buttered bread.

As you read your letter over, comb out grammar snarl—easy to find when you know how! "I laid down to sleep," corrected, becomes "I lay down." "Different than" becomes "different from."

And Mine Your Baby

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRIDGE

It always pleases me greatly when readers tell me how friendly they feel toward me and how freely they quote me to their friends. It is heartening to know that even if this is a "newspaper" friendship it has realness and validity and that my keen desire to help is felt by those kind enough to read this column daily.

Mrs. F. J. says, "I cannot but address you as friend, because that is the only word I can use. And my family gets used to me telling them what Mrs. Eldridge says should be done. Now I wonder what you think this I can't remember having seen an answer to it in your column."

"My baby is 4 months old. She is a nursing baby and doing beautifully. She is as round as a ball and full of lovely dimples. It is as happy as a baby could be. But she has only one bowel movement every other day. Is this normal in consistency and color, but my friends think she needs something to help her have a daily movement. I am very constipated myself. I do give her orange juice and cod liver oil and I intend to begin vegetables soon. But perhaps the news pruned juice to stimulate a movement. What do you think?"

This is a case of constipation and shouldn't be thought of as such. You have continued to think of yourself and the baby as one person, because you have continued to give her, and that your own habits are dependent of yours and it is she is related to hers. But once born the baby's own system works independently of yours and it is she is related to hers. But once born the baby's own system works independently of yours and it is she is related to hers.

Each child has a rhythm of intestinal activity that is peculiarly his own. This may mean five or six stools a day for one child and one every other day for another, until she is put on a bottled formula, or unless the gas is poor and the stool itself of constipated consistency, you need waste not one single worry on it.

Our leaflet, "Types of Stools," discusses constipation as well as powder, Redheads need Brown-Reds; pale, creamy powder shades; Brunettes need the vivid, striking Reds; powder in Ivory, Silver and powder with a rose glow. Your Type and makeup must blend!

CENTRALIA, ONT., SITE OF SCHOOL

Newest and Most Modern R.C.A.F. Station Is Opened

The new R.C.A.F. station opened Sept. 23 at Centralia, Ont., near London, is the most modern of all stations in Canada. Its commanding officer, (left) is Group Captain E. G. Fullerton, who was the first man to fly a Hurricanes fighter in Canada. Instructors are young and the four shown here are all under 21. Left to right they are: Pilot Officer James Glenesk, Sudbury; Pilot Officer Tom Crowley, Audubon, N.J.; Flying Officer George Reads, Detroit, and Flying Officer Bob Shaw, Kapuskasing.

Trainees from Centralia will soon be at the controls of Britain's heaviest bombers, including the mighty Lancasters. Sgt.-Major G. D. Taylor is the station disciplinarian and at left he explains to Squadron Leader F. F. Crankshaw, school padre, details of the flight operations board. At right is what would happen in case of fire. A group of airmen pile out of a window in the modern two-storey barracks to the handy fire escape.

Ontario District Homes Mourn Loss of 25 Men in Fishing Party Tragedy

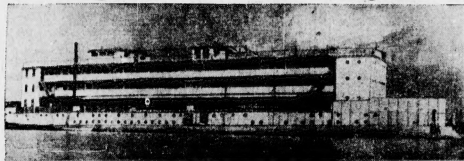

Air view shows where it happened: The spot where the 75-foot launch capsized, carrying many Midland war workers to their death in Georgian Bay is shown in this air view of Beausoleil island. The launch sank at the spot circled in the lower left corner. Also shown is the spot on the island where some of the survivors spent the night in wet clothes.

The boat capsized and the men were pitched into the water within sight of this hotel at Honey Harbor. It is the Delawanna Inn, and some of the survivors were taken to the hotel and given warm drinks and first aid after they were brought across the channel from Beausoleil island.

Floating Hotel—And Lots of Running Water

Brought up from Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., to Washington to help ease the capital's housing shortage, this "floating hotel" has 75 rooms, is 265 feet long and cost $350,000. And if the guests can't get a room with a bath, they can just step outside.

Shining Sands Entertain Miss Sheridan

Ann Sheridan—beautiful red-headed Texan who has demonstrated rare historic ability in many vastly different roles—devotes most of her spare time to the entertainment of the soldiers in camps over the country. Her latest starring vehicle is Warner's picturization of the Broadway comedy hit "George Washington Slept Here" in which she is starred with Jack Benny.

On the Cook's Day Out

The Great Open Spaces

These empty seats at the annual American Legion convention in Kansas City, Mo., are just what the Legion ordered. Members were urged to stay away from the convention, thus freeing already crowded transportation facilities for more necessary use. Legion's first wartime convention is the smallest in its history and is marked by an absence of the parades, drum majorettes, bugle-and-drum corps and unbridled merriment of former years. The business at hand is war.

Assiniboine Hero Takes Bride

Able Seaman Roy Edwin Leeson and his bride are shown after their marriage in St. Anne's Anglican church, Toronto. Able Seaman Leeson was among those who received high praise from Hon. Angus Macdonald, minister of National Defence for Naval Affairs, in connection with the recent sinking of a German submarine by the Assiniboine.
